

The Finn Forrest film

For almost three years, the filmmaker Erik Pauser has followed the seasons and inhabitants of the Finn forest in Värmland. He has had Birgitta Elfström from Värmlands Museum to help her.

The film FINN FOREST - a film about people and places in northern Värmland is part of the project The road to world heritage, where Värmlands Museum is one of several actors working to get the Finn forest on UNESCO's world heritage list. The film wants to show the living Finn forest, how the old environments and stories are part of the present, and about people's relationship to these places and stories.

Duration: about an hour.
